

Christmas day ushered in a decided change in the weather. We now have a cold snap with a little more snow and the temperature 18 below. The roads will soon need some attention as fairly heavy winds have accompanied the snow.

VOLUME 20

CHAMPION, ALBERTA THURSDAY, DECEMBER 29TH 1938

NUMBER 52

EXCEPTIONALLY FINE PROGRAM DRAWS CAPACITY CROWD

The annual Christmas concert of the Champion consolidated schools was held in the Community Hall on Thursday evening with an attendance eclipsing all former records, when the students presented a well arranged program in splendid style. The item was of such a high standard and so well presented that it would be impossible to mention any one as particularly outstanding. A beautifully decorated tree, reaching almost to the ceiling, occupied a prominent place at the left of the stage.

The opening number was a play by Grade 1, "The Lost Star" and each of the little ones did their parts very well. The second number, "Bo Peep" presented by Grades 1 and 2, was equally good, the costumes for both the items being attractive. Comprised of members from Grades 6 to 12, under the direction of Mr. R. I. Baker, the chorus gave a beautiful rendition of "Carol of the Shepherds" and "Finlandia". A humorous play, "A Mouse to Remember," by Grades 6, 7, and 8, proved most entertaining and was well acted. Lovely costumes and fine singing in the operetta "Santa Claus" brought generous applause. The serious note of the evening was presented by Mr. Lindstedt's Dramatic class in the play entitled "For Naught," which portrayed an example of suffering, heartache and tragedy due to war. The part of the father was taken by Dick Deane, who gave an exceptionally a performance of a difficult part. As a closing number, high school students in the colorful costumes of the period, gave a pleasing presentation of the operetta, "Will Shakespear".

At this time Santa Claus arrived and old and young entertained young and old with his merry antics, each of the children receiving a bag of treats.

And so a very successful concert came to a close. Congratulations and great credit is due, both to the students who took part, spending many hours in practice to give such a fine entertainment, and also to the teachers who had the heavy burden of responsibility in planning the concert, getting and making of costumes, carefully training the students, and all the endless details of arranging the elaborate program.

TIME MARCHES ON

Nineteen hundred and thirty eight is almost past, and as we move on into the New Year let us forget our disappointments of this year and prepare ourselves with renewed energy and hope to face the future. Let us discard those little handicaps that so often creep into our lives and make unnecessary barriers in our progress to an honorable goal.

We cannot predict what 1939 has in store for us, but with a measure of caution, and the experience of the past we should judge fairly close on a course that will eliminate any flaws in our former stewardship, and a give us a decided improvement in our annual turnover.

The skating rink was opened to the public last Tuesday evening with Roy Taylor as superintendent. The boys and girls especially are jubilant over the prospect of having the opportunity to enjoy this popular winter sport.

WEEDING OUT CROWS AND MAGPIES-TO INCREASE DUCK CROP

Hello, Western Canada, home of North America's wild ducks, and a potential homeland of millions of permanently prosperous people.

In the name of thousands of Canadians who are working to rebuild our West upon a sure foundation of conservation, we thank the newspapers and radio stations for the opportunity to tell you about Ducks Unlimited—an essential part of the vast work of restoration.

Thousands of crows and magpies paid the penalty for their crimes; hundreds of sportsmen and boys and girls had the satisfaction of weeding out predators to increase crops of game wildlife—and earned cash rewards—all as the result of Crow Control Campaigns carried on in Alberta, Manitoba, and Saskatchewan during 1938 ALBERTA CROW CONTROL CAMPAIGN.

In Alberta, Ducks Unlimited placed $1,300.00 in the hands of three trustees—Leonard E. Wise, Edmonton, president of the Alberta Fish and Game Association; Wm. Fisher, Calgary, representative of the Alberta Association of Game and Western Wildlife Council; and Geo. Spargo, Edmonton, Director of Fisheries.

Under the able leadership of this energetic committee, 12 Alberta Fish and Game Associations took an active part in the campaign; and accounted for 27,000 of the 47,000 crows and magpies reported.

Discharged—George Hargrave Champion Stanley Brandvold Carmangay Betty Owsley Barons Born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Dellen, Dec. 23, a daughter.

COLLEGIATE NEWS AND VIEWS

Due to the fact that there is no school this week and the appointed reporters are not yet recovered from their Christmas dinner etc., there is little school news.

The school concert took place last Thursday and was considered a success by the audience at least, (thank heaven it's over for another year).

A pleasant little event took place at school last Wednesday when the after-four typing class presented Mr. Farries with a small gift in appreciation of his kindness in teaching them after school hours.

Kenneth McMahon writes from Klamath Falls, Ore., stating that he is having a wonderful time and wishes us all the season greetings.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange

"I guess I won't buy any Thatcher, Renown or Apex just yet," said a farmer friend the other day. "I'll wait and get some of those new varieties 975 or 1007. I hear they will be better."

Many farmers in the rust areas are thinking this way. The government has announced that two new rust resistant varieties—No. 975 and No. 1007, which have been produced by the Rust Research Laboratory, Winnipeg, are now being tested. Great Britain for milling and baking quality.

No doubt if either or both of these should prove superior to the existing rust resistant strains they will be named, licensed for use, and distributed to farmers.

There is, however, I understand, but a relatively small quantity of seed available, so there could not possibly be more than a very few bushels to be given to each farmer.

Under these circumstances I advised my friend to secure as possible sufficient of the rust resistant varieties that are now available, that is either Thatcher, Renown or Apex, and to apply to the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa for a small quantity of the new varieties; then to sow the new variety, either 975 or 1007, next spring on a small piece of nice clean summerfallow.

Following factors have tended to raise price: Rains lately badly needed in India—China purchasing American wheat—Floating corn stocks only half the amount of a year ago—Insufficient moisture with prospects below average in Poland—Switzerland buys Canadian wheat—Frosts damage Argentine grapes—Subnormal German apple harvest.

Following factors have tended to lower price: Argentine crop prospects still highly satisfactory—Germany said to have one of greatest grain harvests in history—Winter wheat acreage increased or maintained in the Balkans—British buyers indifferent to American wheat—Large arrivals of Balkan corn at shipping points.

KING GEORGE THE SIXTH

Chapter Two.
"CHILDHOOD SHOWS THE MAN AS MORNING SHOWS THE DAY."
—Milton.

Everyone who has had an opportunity to meet His Majesty King George the Sixth is deeply impressed with the striking resemblance between the present monarch and the late King George the Fifth, who was beloved throughout the whole world and whose character gave new strength to the throne of the greatest Empire in the history of mankind. It is said that the second son of the late King George the Fifth is more like his father in mind and heart than any of the other children, showing what a tremendous King's character from his early nursery days.

King George the Fifth was brought up in all the traditions of an English gentleman and he regarded his duties to the realm as sacred, even if it implied untold personal sacrifices. It was this same code which made him one of the most beloved Kings that ever sat on the throne. It was this same fortitude of character that helped him to lead the British people through the bitter struggle of the World War of 1914-1918 and to carry out all the reconstruction processes that followed in its wake. It was the human side of things that appealed to him. This was the kind of environment and influence that guided the early life of King George the Sixth. The two Princes, Edward and Albert, and their sister, Princess Mary, were really high-spirited and happy children, with much practical joking experience enlivening the Royal households. The parents of the present King, King Edward VII, and the Royal children spent much time in the company of their grandfather, especially when the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York were forced to go on long trips abroad such as the state visit to the Australian Commonwealth.

It is no secret that their grandfather, the predecessor of the late King George the Fifth, tolerated their youthful love for rough sports to display their childish gaiety and energy. This was typical of the domestic monarch. Consequently, King George the Sixth is in the nursery and in the nursery schoolroom was as democratic and normal as that of any other right type of high-spirited English child. This fact had a tremendous influence on the character of the present King.

He has always remembered the advice of his grandfather and father, and today he is known everywhere as a true friend of all children, giving up such of his time and energy towards welfare movements which aim to help a boy or girl to obtain a good start in life.

Of course, there are other strong influences in his early childhood which moulded his character, particularly on the educational side.

Chapter Three.

It is recorded in history that the late King Edward the Seventh was determined that his son, who later became King George the Fifth, should be brought up in the traditions of an English gentleman and this implied a carefully planned educational programme. This same procedure was followed by the father of the present King George the Sixth, who spared no energy to prepare his son for the responsibilities and duties which he was destined to impose upon him as head of an Empire which was larger than any the world had ever seen in the long history of mankind. When the Duke and Duchess of York and Cornwall had returned from their state visit to the Australian Commonwealth, they decided to solve the problems of educating their children who had been guided by the nursery governess, Madame Bricks, an extremely clever and intelligent woman who had served in a similar capacity for years for Queen Mary. Madame Bricks was loved by her charges and it is said that her role in the lives of these Royal youngsters was an important one.

The first move in this direction to educate the Royal children was the engagement of a tutor, with every historian agreeing that the ultimate choice was a fortunate one because Mr. H. P. Hansell, who acted in this capacity as tutor to the Princes and Princess, was a brilliant scholar and a teacher who had a peculiar ability to create enthusiasm in the minds of his pupils for subjects which are extremely tedious and unattractive to them. Very difficult to be taught youngsters unless they are intensely eager to learn. However, all Royal children liked the tall, slim and intellectual tutor, who was for years the Gentleman Usher to King George the Fifth, and the Gentleman Usher, a d and their enthusiasm for the Royal Family, having been a private tutor to Prince Arthur of Connaught.

Madame Bricks acted the tutor by acting as French teacher for a time, but upon the return of the Duke and Duchess of York and Cornwall from their trip to Australia, they brought with them Madame de la Roche, who along with them, Madame de la Roche, who had been French governess to the three sons of the late Lord Teignmouth, then the Governor. In May, 1903, a Librarian and French teacher named M. Hux joined the school staff of the Royal Family, and with Madame de la Roche and M. Hux teaching the language to the Princes and Princess, it is usually understood that there was a transfer of knowledge of this subject. M. Hux had taught French to the Duke of Clarence and the late King George the Fifth when the two brothers were on the Britannia together, and later he became a master at Eton for 18 years.

The present King received excellent instruction in mathematics and his love for this subject can be attributed to the encouragement he had received from the well-known mathematics master of Tonbridge School, Mr. M. S. David, who was engaged to assist the tutor.

This is the basis of the educational side of the early life of King George the Sixth, but of equal importance is the record of the endeavors to follow the old classical ideal of "mens sana in corpore sano" wherein the physical sporting side is emphasized.

EDMONTON—An editorial appearing in the Edmonton Bulletin of December 28th suggests a new plan for pegging wheat. The plan would be to pay $1 dollar per bushel, No. 1 Northern basis, to each farmer for, say, the first 2,500 bushels of what he delivers to the elevator, leaving him to dispose of the remainder of his crop in the usual way.
